

If you work for an organisation who has lost an existing contract to Redstone Converged Solutions and you are currently assigned to the work we are about to carry out – this web page is for you.

If you are not currently working on a contract that Redstone Converged Solutions has been awarded but thinking of applying to us for work, please view our recruitment web pages.

These pages are designed to help you through the process of transferring to us by beginning the consultation and information process.

These pages are not designed to offer legal advice of any kind, and you should take advice on your own situation before taking any decision that affects your employment. We are, however, committed to helping provide an understanding of the process we are all about to go through.

FAQs

1. My organisation is talking about a 'TUPE' transfer and me working for Redstone Converged Solutions – what does this mean? Under the Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of Employment) Regulations 2006 (known as TUPE) there are rules about what happens to staff when a service contract changes hands. This is known as a service provision change (SPC). If your employer loses a contract to Redstone Converged Solutions and you are currently contractually employed to do the work covered by the contract, it is likely that you are covered by the TUPE regulations. Your current employer should let you (and Redstone Converged Solutions HR department) know if they believe you are in a group affected by the transfer.

If you are not employed, but a contractor in your own right, or working for a sub contractor, not the main contractor, please contact us if you are working on an account that has now been awarded to Redstone Converged Solutions. If you fail to do this, we have no way of knowing of your existence. Your rights are different to those of direct employees and most of what is set out below may not apply to you.

2. What happens to my job? If your job mostly involves working on the contract that is coming over to Redstone Converged Solutions, then you will transfer over to us. There are government rules on who is covered and who is not, so if you work involves a variety of duties/sites/contracts you should check with your employer and take advice on whether you are in a group that will come to us.
3. What happens to my salary/package/benefits? Under the TUPE regulations you bring your existing contract of employment through with you. There are special rules for pensions. When you start work for Redstone Converged Solutions you will be on the same terms as you are currently on.
4. What happens to my service with my current employer? You bring your service with you. For example if you have worked one year for your current employer, then on your first day with Redstone Converged Solutions you have one year and one day's service. You will not be a 'new starter' in terms of reckoning your employment rights, your seniority and any other service related issues.
5. Your pension rights under TUPE are different depending on what kind of scheme you are in: If you are in a pension scheme, you should let us know what type of scheme you are in (stake holder, money purchase, final salary), what contributions you are making, what contributions your employer is making. You will be eligible to join our scheme. More details will be made available when you tell us what type of scheme/contributions cover you at the moment.
6. What should I do when my old employers' contract ends? Unless we have made special arrangements with you, you will be expected to turn up for work at your normal start time on your next normal working day. We may need you to change that if we want you to meet some of our team, or hold a team meeting.

7. What will happen when I start working for Redstone Converged Solutions? Although you are bringing your full service with you, you are new to us. We will need to go through an induction process with you in order to get you onto our payroll systems, make sure you know about our Health and Safety protocols, who's who in our organisation. If your current employer gives you a P45 this does not mean you have been dismissed, you should bring it with you as we need it to get you onto our payroll system.
8. Who will be there when I turn up? Your new line manager will be holding a meeting to greet the team. You should attend that meeting, even if this is not at your normal start time/day. It may be that we will need to bring in some of our engineers. They will be there, if needed, so that we can talk to you and get organised AND provide service to the client at the same time.
9. What kind of briefing will I have? We value your expertise and experience and we will want to sit down with you and find out how you have been working on the project to date. We will also want to talk to you about how we envisage working in the future. Depending on the contract itself, we may have contracted to provide additional, new or different services alongside the ones you are currently providing and we will need to make sure our working methods are aimed at the new contractual arrangements with our client.
10. How long will this take? Depending on the scope of the project and the size of the team, we expect a hand over period, when we are working towards our new service standards from the original base. There is no hard and fast rule, your line manager will talk to you about appropriate time scales once they have had a chance to talk to you and find out how you work at the moment.
11. Will I get any formal training? We are working on the basis that you are properly qualified and experienced for the role you hold. We anticipate 'on the job' briefing and training on any specific methods or equipment we use that you are not already familiar with. You will, of course, have access to Redstone Converged Solutions wide range of training and development. Once you have started with us you will be able to find out more about that via our intranet.
12. What are my prospects for promotion/transfer? We are a rapidly expanding organisation with sites across the UK. We welcome applications for promotion and transfer. If we have a site closer to your home, or a job that more closely matches your skills. If you do accept a new role within Redstone Converged Solutions, this will be on Redstone Converged Solutions terms and conditions of employment. Your TUPE right to keep your existing contract only applies to the role you are in at the time of transfer.
13. What changes will you make to how I am paid? For most incoming 'TUPE staff' no changes will be necessary. We may need to:
 - Change your holiday year to coincide with ours. This will not involve any loss of holiday entitlement or accrual just a change of the dates to which it is calculated.
 - Change your pay day to coincide with ours. There will be proper provision to deal with any hardship this may involve.
 - Cease benefits that can only exist if you are part of your old employer's group e.g. staff discount cards where being an employee of a particular organisation is a condition of membership.
 - Make specific pension arrangements.
14. Any other changes? We will also need to put you onto our grievance and disciplinary procedure. We hope we won't have to use either procedure, but it is important you know what our procedures are. You will need to be familiar with our equal opportunities procedure plus any other corporate policies.
15. Am I going to be made redundant? No. The vast majority of incoming staff are far from redundant. We are an expanding company and we want you to work for us. In many sites we are recruiting new additional staff to work alongside you, have a look at our web site. In a tiny number of contracts there are roles that are no longer required because of technical changes in the way we work. We will be consulting with those potentially affected individuals via their current employers. However, this does not mean you should not join us because:

- Your full service comes with you so you have the same entitlements as you have now.
- We may be able to find you a suitable alternative role in our growing organisation.

16. What should I do now? If you have any questions we have not dealt with here, please ask us. Your question will go to the HR TUPE team.

17. What do I do to prepare? It would be extremely helpful if you would let us know before the transfer the date of any:

- Pre-booked annual leave
- Paternity leave
- Maternity leave
- Parental leave
- Any other kind of leave

Redstone Converged Solutions support your entitlements to annual leave. We need to know who is going to be absent so that we can try and arrange suitable briefings and cover.

18. Can I meet you beforehand? To meet you during your normal working hours, we need to go via your employer. Some are happy to arrange this and we arrange joint consultation meetings. We are perfectly happy to meet you out of working hours, if we can make suitable arrangements. Please let us know how to contact you and when you would like to meet.
